Savor soothing serenity in this marvelous master bath by Amy Studebaker Design.

The St. Louis luxury living design firm chose a bright white color scheme for an all-encompassing experience, from the luxurious white marble floors to the richly detailed white-paneled walls, to accentuate the light and airy vaulted 14-foot ceiling.

Below built-in soffits, his-and-her vanities featuring white marble countertops and custom white cabinetry flank the bath's beautiful focal point: a white freestanding bathtub situated below an arched window lined with a lovely lit inset border. The serene scene is reflected by rectangular mirror panes with chic sconces.

"From studs to finishing details, this suite encompassed a functional and soothing space that our clients feel enhances their daily lives," designer Amy Studebaker says.

Judges loved the light and bright bath, with one noting the "timeless design and quality materials ensure this room will age beautifully."
